

2010 All-Arizona Messier Marathon

Saturday, March 13, 2010

I acknowledge that bringing children (especially young children) and pets to the All-Arizona Messier Marathon (herein after referred to as the "Marathon") is not a good idea and if I do so I shall be responsible for their actions and safety. I will keep any pets on a leash and away from telescopes. I am aware that the site is unimproved and that there are aspects of it beyond the control of the Marathon coordinators who I will not hold responsible for such aspects, to include among others, animals (some poisonous), plants (such as cacti) and the natural layout of the terrain at the site. I also understand that this is a desert environment and I have taken care of at least the minimal requirements for this site (including, but not limited to: a gallon of water per person; sturdy, enclosed shoes; and proper clothing for hot days and cold nights). I know that I will be in an extremely light restricted environment after sunset. I will use the dim red light observing protocol so as to not ruin my own night vision as well as the vision of those around me. I will park my vehicle conducive to when I plan on leaving (parking to avoid backing up after dark; early leavers near the entrance, all-nighters the furthest away from the entrance). I will announce my departure before I leave and will seek assistance for exiting the observing field. I am responsible for having and following a plan for my safe arrival and return home. I will arrive while it's still light and will only leave the paved roads if they are dry and it does not look like it will rain. I know this is a Marathon and there is a high likelihood that I will not sleep during the night.
